NEED OF A FORESTRY POLICY.

Mr. William E. Curtis, in his letters from Germany to the Record, points out the beneficial results to that country from its wise forestry policy. Notwithstanding the demands of centuries for timber and fuel, one-quarter of the area of the German empire is to-day covered with trees.

The United States has been exceedingly derelict in protecting from destruction its natural forests, and has done almost nothing to promote the growth of trees where there are no forests. The result is that timber for fuel and building purposes is rapidly becoming more scarce. But worse than all others is the effect upon the water courses and the climate that is sure to follow the destruction of the forests. The disastrous river floods of last spring should impress upon the people and their officials the necessity of a forestry policy for the United States that will at least tend to mitigate the destruction by spring floods. It is much better to spend money to prevent excessively high water than to spend it enlarging levees and embankments to keep the floods from overflowing the country.—Chicago Record.

ARIZONA.

A careful reading of the newspapers of Arizona discloses that the development of the rich and varied resources of the big Territory is proceeding in a most gratifying manner despite the many drawbacks that have existed to development everywhere during the past seven years.

Perhaps this development is most prominent in the mining industry, which is taking great strides forward this year. Arizona is very rich in gold, silver and copper, and it needs only brains and the magic touch of capital to place her in the front rank among the producers of these important metals. A large amount of prospecting is being done and the results seem to be simply satisfactory to the prospectors. If one may judge from the published interviews.

The cattle industry, too, which has been picking up somewhat all over the country during the last year or two, is no small factor in the industry and prosperity of Arizona, and it will add considerably to the round-up of the year's profits.

A new railroad to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado will surely be built very soon, if indeed, it is not completed this year. This will add greatly to the attractions of the Territory, and will draw many visitors who perhaps now labor under the mistaken impression that Arizona is an almost trackless desert.

The leading cities of the Territory, too, are doing very well and displaying unmistakable indications of up-to-date enterprise and push. Phoenix, Tucson, Tombstone, Prescott and others that might be named are feeling the impetus and moving ahead accordingly.

If Congress will have the justice to admit Arizona into the Union next winter it will grow and prosper as it never has before, surpassing its most sanguine friends. The Herald sincerely hopes the result will be achieved.—Los Angeles Herald.

"My boy came home from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale at D. J. Brannen's drug store.

TERRITORIAL.

Prescott property owners are now compelled to pay a tax of $4.30 on the $100. Of this, $3.40 is county and Territorial, 75 cents city and 15 cents special school tax. This item is not a very good immigration inducement, but is a fact.—Prescott Journal-Miner.

The Board fixed the tax rate at $3.80 on the $100 valuation in Graham county for the year 1897. We understand that this increase of 15 cents over last year on the whole valuation of property as finally fixed by the Board of Equalization is on account of $3000 of the bonded indebtedness of the county becoming payable this year.—Guardian.

Near Phoenix, this summer, a firm of growers has fed thousands of fine watermelons to hogs, it being impossible to ship them away at any profit. The hogs waxed fat on the sugary melons and are depended upon to furnish a profit that would not have been secured in the market had the melons been shipped as melons and not as pork.

The Board of Superintendence met last Monday for the purpose of adjusting the tax levy for the county. The general levy in the county was placed at $3 on the $100 of valuation. In Kingman school district a separate levy of 25 cents on the $100 of valuation was made. This is 5 cents on the $100 lower than last year, while the general levy is the same.—Kingman Miner.

Judge E. R. Monk, receiver of the United States Land Office at Tucson, came in last evening from a visit to the Grand Canyon, and leaves this evening for the south. He is accompanied by his brother, Dr. J. A. Monk, of Los Angeles, who will remain in Prescott for a day or two. Dr. Monk formerly resided in the Territory and still owns business interests in the southern part of the Territory. He is one of Arizona's most enthusiastic friends, and has the largest and best selected collection of literature pertaining to the Territory extant. He has 500 volumes of books and pamphlets alone, to say nothing of the newspaper articles, which he has by the thousands. The doctor devotes his spare time to the collection of literature on this subject.—Prescott Journal-Miner.

The excitement throughout the Southwest in mining is just now turned toward the Yaqui gold fields, where rich discoveries of placer gold were recently made and worked with remarkable results. A great many from Arizona will visit the new country the coming fall and winter, and not a few have already left for the new fields. The Republican will print a series of articles from the Yaqui country by George H. Smalley, the mining editor of that paper, who has left for the new strike. Mr. Smalley will go to Guaymas, Mexico, from which point he will take the steamer, which runs down the Gulf of California and up the Yaqui river to the farthest navigable points, from which place the trip to the gold fields is made a la Klondyke—any old way to get there.

Lew and John Blakely, accompanied by their wives, arrived from Cedar Sunday, bringing a sack loaded with rock from a new find recently made by the boys near Cedar. It was rich looking stuff, and held its colors when Lew Lassell weighed the button showing 127 ounces of gold per ton. They have three inches of this rich stuff besides a good sized ledge of $100 ore. The find was made while hunting their horses to come to Kingman for a supply of merchandise. The ledge is well defined, and while no work as yet has been done on it, the marks of permanency are plain to be seen. The judge having mined all the way from '49 to the present day between sermons and law cases, is not much excited over the discovery, but there is no doubt but what it is a rich find and only makes stronger the fact that the country is not half prospected. Their mine, the Belle McElroy, is also developing into a bonanza. The ore in the bottom of the 100-foot shaft will average over $50 in gold per ton and the level being run from that depth shows even richer ore. They will be compelled to erect a hoist on the Belle McElroy.—Mineral Wealth.

Pronounced incurable, but Advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla—Now Entirely Cured and Able to Work.

I got six bottles and before I had taken three of them, I was cured of my kidney trouble. I am now able to work, although before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was almost helpless. I am able to walk three or four miles a day, and feel none the worse for it."—J. M. STANTON, Winton, Okla.

Taking the Treatment.

William E. Curtis is visiting Hamburg, the most aristocratic of all the German spas, and writes a long letter to the Chicago Record about the place. He describes the treatment as follows: "People who are taking the cure have to be very careful about their diet, but they can drink all the milk they want—the more the better. A few gallons of spring water mixed with a few gallons of milk if taken regularly every day, flushes the sewers of the human system and is so easy to digest that the internal arrangements have a holiday as it were. Hence there is a 'cowhouse,' not a 'dairy lunchroom,' nor an 'evergreen dairy,' or any other kind of fancy name, but a plain 'cowhouse'—where you can see the animals and absorb an odor that reminds you of a New England barnyard. That is an essential part of the treatment. The place is surrounded by a rose garden and a beautiful grove, and about 5 o'clock every afternoon you can find the belles and the beaux, the princess and dukes, the counts and barons and their feminine equivalents, sitting around little tables and swigging milk by the quart, while the fragrance from the stables floats over as thick and pungent as the smoke from a Chicago chimney."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The first man who discovered gold in Australia was hanged for his pains. He was one of the first convicts transported to Botany Bay, and when he learned the great secret he brought a sample to show his success, and was promptly hanged for attempting to escape.
